CITY COUNCIL.

Asble from passing the resolution providing for fire escapes, there was no business of special interest transacted by the City Council last night.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

It was ten minutes after eight o'clock when the Aldermen were called to order by the appearance of Mr. Goodrich, who made the necessary quorum.

An order, offered by Mr. Leadbeater at the last meeting, providing for an appropriation of $800 for the purchase of a horse and wagon for use at the police station was called up.

Mr. Bryant asked if $800 would be sufficient to purchase a patrol wagon, horse and harness. He doubted it. A suitable horse would cost $150, harness $45 to $50 and a heavy, well-made wagon would be requisite for the purpose.

Mr. Goodrich moved the adoption of the order. Mr. Leadbeater seconded the motion and it was adopted unanimously.

The statement of Auditor Price regarding the operation of laws requiring building and burial permits came in from the Common Council. When the list of deaths was read and the Greek nomenclature of the diseases was reached it was unanimously agreed that the further reading of the paper be dispensed with and the action of the lower board be concurred in.

The report of the committee on general laws providing for fire escapes for certain buildings was received from the Common Council and their action in adopting it concurred in.

The Common Council returned the order providing for the purchase of a patrol wagon, having referred the matter to the committee on streets, and their action was concurred in.

The report of the committee on light providing for the lighting of the gas-lamps at intersections of streets where no electric lights have been placed, laid over by the clerk at the last meeting, was called up and adopted.

The lower board notified the Aldermen through Mr. Uhler that they were through with their business and ready to adjourn.

After the report of the committee on light left the clerk's desk for the other board an intermission followed while waiting to hear from the Common Council, it being supposed the paper had struck a snag in that body.

After waiting about ten minutes Mr. Kraft appeared and announced that the lower board had not concurred in the action of this board in regard to lighting the gas lamps. This board concurred in their action and then adjourned.

COMMON COUNCIL.

The Common Council convened at the regular hour, and in the absence of the clerk Mr. Geo. W. Fisher was elected clerk pro tem.

Mr. Kraft reported in favor of adopting in Alexandria the same system of fire-escapes which prevails in Washington. He said that the system that was in use there was the same which had been first proposed to the committee here. He had visited the District building and conferred with Building Inspector Entwistle and had been told that the authorities there, after listening to various crank systems, had made a thorough examination and adopted the one now in use. In Washington all the school buildings had fire-proof stair cases, but besides that when the building was over two stories in height a fire escape was furnished, also. The cost of these escapes would be from $75 to $90 per story, which would occasion very little expense. The law required places of public amusement, even if only one story, to have fire-escapes, so that the Opera House, as well as McBurney's Hall, would come under the rule.

Capt. Mushbach—How about hotels? Mr. Kraft said that all buildings of more than three stories would require to have fire-escapes.

The report was adopted. When a resolution came in from the Aldermen for the purchase of a patrol wagon, horse and harness, it was announced as its principal design to carry "criminals" to the almshouse.

Mr. Mushbach thought that the paper needed remodeling, so as to clearly express what was meant.

The chair said that he thought the matter should be laid over until the firemen should be first supplied with hose wagons and horses.

Mr. Kraft—"Have we a committee on horses?"

Capt. Mushbach hoped the paper would be referred, so that it could be made a rather more intelligible piece of legislation than it is now.

The reference was agreed to. It was the sentiment of many of the members that without an alarm system, or some system of communicating with the station house or wherever the wagon was kept, such wagon would be useless. It was also thought that a regular driver would have to be provided and that a patrol wagon would prove to be an expensive and almost useless affair.

Mr. Mushbach called up the application of the King's Daughters for an appropriation of $1,000 to aid in completing the new infirmary building. The appropriation had been reported favorably upon, but had been laid on the table by the Council.

Mr. Mushbach, after the order of appropriation had been read, moved its adoption.

The chair asked to be excused from voting. He did not wish to vote against the proposition, but did not think the Council had a legal right to make the appropriation.

The clerk took the vote and the chair was excused, and the order was adopted. Mr. McCuen inquired what had become of the resolution introduced by Mr. Snowden providing for the re-lighting of the gas lamps on corners where there were no electric lights.

The chair said it was pending in the Board of Aldermen.

Later, after a report adverse to placing an electric light on the corner of Duke and Fayette streets and favoring the re-lighting of gas lamps on dark corners had come in from the Board of Aldermen.

Mr. Uhler thought the plan was not complete. It did not provide for the lighting and extinguishing of the lamps.

Mr. McCuen thought the committee on light could provide for that.

The chair said that he had introduced the original resolution but he thought that the measure should go back so as to be made to provide how the lights are to be extinguished and by whom.

The matter was recommitted to the committee on light to furnish the information as to cost asked for in the original resolution, and report on both resolutions at the same time, and also, as to by whom the lamps shall be lighted and extinguished.

No other matters occasioned discussion.

DEFENDANT BECOMES PLAINTIFF.

As is often noticeable in the police court, many colored people brought there for various misdemeanors believe in the sanctity of lex talionis, and it is not long before those fined manage to trump up some charge against their accuser and cause them in turn to open their purse. Last week a colored youth named Brook Jackson was one of the attendants at a ball at the colored Odd Fellows' Hall, and having taken a drink or two and placed his hat on the back of his head imagined he was the only autocrat present, and while laboring under this delusion became noisy, abusive and finally called the wife of the caterer, Benj. Berry, an ugly name. The latter slapped the slanderer in the mouth and Officer Young entering, arrested Jackson, who resisted, and locked him up. He was fined $5 next morning. To-day Jackson appeared in court as complainant against Berry whom he charged with selling liquor without a license. Several witnesses were examined, most of whom averred there was a "suspicion" of liquor in some decoction called lemonade which Berry was selling. The latter in his statement admitted the potion was spiked; that he had put a pint of whiskey to a gallon of water, a few lemons and some sugar. Mayor Strauss fined him $5 (the smallest sum he could impose) for selling liquor or any of its decoctions without a license.

JUVENILE BURGLARS.—Arthur Meeks and William Bright, the former 14 and the latter 13, were before Mayor Strauss this morning charged with burglariously entering the store of Mr. E. R. Dunn, corner of Cameron and Henry streets, on the night of the 26th of January, and stealing therefrom cigars and cigarettes to the value of $5.65. Meeks in his statement confessed to having entered the store, but insisted that he and his companion found a window of the store open. The Mayor, realizing the tender years of the accused, concluded to impose a nominal fine ($3) on each, with the understanding that the elder be placed in the U. S. navy by his father, who, it seems, has tried every other way to curb the incorrigibility of the youth. The wisdom of sending such youthful characters to jail for five or six months, which would probably have been done had the case gone to court, is questioned by some, it being averred that while in such an institution they are necessarily thrown into the company of bad men—the Jack Sheppards, Blueskins and Vildons of our day—and when they are released they have learned many things they were ignorant of when the jail door first closed behind them.

ANNUARY OF A NOTABLE DISASTER.—On the 28th day of February, 1844, or 49 years ago, occurred an accident on the Potomac which is prominent in American history—the explosion of a gun on the sloop-of-war Princeton off Fort Washington, about 7 miles below this city. The Princeton left Washington that morning with her flag flying, having on board President Tyler, Secretary of State Upshur, Secretary of the Navy Gilmer and other officers, including several congressmen. The cabinet officers were among the killed. The occasion was the testing of the ship's guns. The Princeton was the first steam man-of-war constructed by this government, and as she passed this city attracted no little attention, the wharves being thronged with people who watched her with interest as she glided past the city. Sometime that evening she passed again on her return, this time moving slowly, her flag half-mast and with several corpses aboard, together with many injured, the result of the explosion of the heavy gun which was being tested. The accident threw a funeral pall over the entire country.

NEW CARS.—The new cars for the electric railroad are being placed in order as fast as possible, and by the time the heavy Mount Vernon travel sets in the company will have thirteen passenger cars for the accommodation of the multitudes who will desire to visit Mt. Vernon during the inauguration season. The new car for the street is now running, and it is one of the prettiest coaches ever placed upon a street. There are double entrances at each end with four seats, back to back, with the others arranged lengthwise. It is designed for both summer and winter use, the sides being so constructed that by removing the panels an open car can be produced, while during rainy or other unfavorable weather the sides can be immediately closed to the elements. Travel through the streets is on a steady increase, and the cars are being justly appreciated by all.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—The regular meeting of Golden Light Lodge was held last night and it was largely attended, there being present about 40 members of the different lodges of Washington, D. C. Three candidates were initiated, making about twenty new members taken into the lodge during the last three weeks. Mr. M. F. Padgett, chairman of the committee on entertainment, with the assistance of Golden Light Orchestra, furnished an excellent entertainment, consisting of music—vocal and instrumental—recitations, readings, etc. The visitors left on the late train much pleased. Golden Light Lodge now numbers over 80 members in good standing.

THE LONG BRIDGE DISASTER.—The deputy coroner of Washington held an inquest yesterday on the body of Fireman Simpson, killed Monday morning in the collision of Washington Southern Railroad train on the Long Bridge. After the testimony was all in the jury came to the conclusion that the operator at the telegraph office, B. J. Beal, who was under arrest on the charge of carelessness, was not responsible for the collision, and that the red signal of danger had been displayed when the northbound train came across the bridge. The jury found a verdict imputing carelessness to Engineer Maloney, and exonerated the operator, who was thereupon discharged.

The home of the Misses Williamson, on north Patrick street, was the scene last night of a pleasant gathering of their many friends, chaperoned by Mrs. M. J. Moore, of Purcellville, and Mrs. Phillips, of this city. The affair was a surprise to them, and, if judged by their cordiality, was a very pleasant one. One of the most pleasant features of the evening was the rendering of several solos by Mrs. Phillips, accompanied with music by Profs. Black and Clarkson, of Baltimore. The evening was so agreeably spent that at the hour of midnight when Prof. Clarkson touched his violin and produced the strains of "Home Sweet Home," the guests reluctantly took their departure. The guests had scarcely retired to their homes when the ladies of the house were again pleasantly surprised by a party of serenaders, whose music lasted until the "wee sma" hours of the morning. Among those present were: Misses Stuart, English, Miller and Butts, of this city. The Hon. O. D. Miller and sister, of Rappahannock, and Messrs. Edward Duncan, of Culpeper; James G. Curtin, E. Kimball, G. Pitcher, Norman Williamson and James Calvert.

Mr. J. T. Coughton, an old and esteemed citizen, was taken suddenly ill in Cupid's barber shop to-day. He was taken to his home nearby where, after medical attendance, he soon rallied and this evening was considered much improved.

ANOTHER FALL.—Mr. Arthur Davis, son of Policeman Davis, and who fell from the new library building in Washington last summer and was seriously hurt, happened to a similar accident to-day at the power house of the street railway at 4th and M streets southwest. On this occasion a scaffold upon which he was working broke from its fastenings, causing Mr. Davis to fall to the street below, a distance of twenty-five feet. He was attended by Washington physicians and later placed under the influence of morphine and brought to his home in this city. It is thought no bones were broken, though it is feared some internal injury may be discovered.

POLICE REPORT.—Last night was cool and cloudy until about 2 o'clock, when it became clear. Two prisoners and two lodgers were at the station house.

Mayor Strauss this morning disposed of the following cases:

Arthur Meeks and William Bright, arrested for breaking in the store of E. R. Dunn, were fined $5 each.

Benj. Berry, colored, charged with selling liquor without a license, was fined $5.

WILL GET EVEN.—About two years ago Lieut. Smith arrested in this city a colored man named Phil. Wilkerson, alias Phil. Edney, charged with robbing a store in Montgomery county, Md., and who was sent to the penitentiary in that State. To-day Wilkerson was in the city and as he passed Lieut. Smith on the street said, "I will get even with you." Lieut. Smith at once arrested the man and locked him up.

MR. PERCY M. REESE, who some weeks ago so delighted our citizens with his lecture entitled "From Lucerne to Florence," will on Monday evening, the 13th inst., deliver the second lecture of his series at the Opera House. The Inauguration Parade.

The arrangements for the inauguration parade to take place in Washington Saturday are about completed.

This is the programme: The start will be made from the White House at near half-past ten o'clock as possible. Mr. Harrison will have sent over to the Arlington for Mr. Cleveland and they will enter a carriage at the White House and drive through the grounds to Pennsylvania avenue. There the Presidential escort will be waiting. This escort will consist of the grand marshal and his staff, the U. S. troops under Gen. John R. Brooke, U. S. A., comprising a battalion of artillery and marines, not mounted, serving as infantry, a light battery and a squadron of cavalry, and the District of Columbia National Guard, under command of General Ordway. The President will be saluted. It must be borne in mind that this salute is not for Mr. Cleveland, but for Mr. Harrison, as he is still President.

The march to the Capitol will then be taken. General Brooke and the regulars will lead the way. Then will follow the President and the President-elect, the Vice-President and the Senate committee of arrangements, the members of the Cabinet, the major general commanding the army and the senior admiral commanding the navy, followed by the District of Columbia National Guard.

The events which will follow are all down in the programme. The new Senate will organize, the President and Vice President will be sworn in, the inaugural will be delivered and President Cleveland will ride back to the White House.

Mr. Cleveland will now be President. He will ride down to the Capitol on Mr. Harrison's left. In returning the President will ride between two solid walls of people, comprising probably a half million souls. They pack great stands holding many thousands each, which are placed at intervals from the Peace monument to Washington square, a distance of three miles. They will line the sidewalks and will fill every window and every roof.

Behind the President will come the thousands of marching men. The lowest estimate which the army officers who have assisted Marshal McMahon in the formation of the parade will make of the number of men who ought to be in line is 35,000. The President will review the parade from the grand stand in front of the executive mansion. On it will sit most of the distinguished men of the incoming and outgoing administration and their wives. Each organization must march on past the White House to Washington square.

For affections of the throat and chest, and lungs, it has no equal. Mr. H. J. Rudman, Ivy and Wheat Sts., Atlanta, Ga., writes: "Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has proved a very great blessing. It has entirely cured a bad case of Laryngitis of long standing. Success to it always."

SPRING OPENING

TO-DAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, Pattern Hats and Bonnets. Millinery Novelties.

It'll be the earliest and best chance to see the newest styles in Hats and Bonnets. London, Paris, and New York are under tribute to make the occasion a pronounced success. The Paris contingent is here—you can tell them yourself—with the original labels. The great artists of Paris are all represented.

All the blossoms that reign in a gay garden in flowery June have been reproduced to decorate the headgear for the new season. Delicate orchids adorn their fragile loveliness; scarcely less dainty and frail conceits of filmy lace enter largely into the Hat and Bonnet garniture. Ostrich feathers and aigrettes also play a prominent part.

The averages shapes are in medium sizes. This is decidedly to be a "Hat season."

Bonnets, outside of the poke family, are very small. Fashion's latest fancy is the "EMPIRE." The crown is of mauve colored chip. Poke brim of a fancy braid, combining the new shade of green and mauve, monture of rich red roses, buds and leaves. Front of lace at back falling over the hair. Finished with green ribbon strings caught by jeweled beetles. Bandeau or roses around front. Unique.

MME. JOSSE contributes a large hat. Frame is of jet, brim covered with jet lace, garniture of yellow roses and velvet foliage. Prince of Wales plumes, velvet ribbon strings. Superb.

MME. POUYANNE has sent us a Hat that is a poem in itself. Very fine Leghorn, wide brim covered with dainty white silk Chantilly lace, gathered at the crown and falling in graceful folds to edge of brim. High crown with band of purple velvet covered with gold embroidered lace. Garniture of purple velvet and valley lilies in harmonious shades of lavender and green. White "Prince of Wales" plume. Bandeau of purple velvet, valley lilies and foliage. Exquisite.

There are others just as pretty. We want you to see them—then you can properly appreciate them.

It's the finest display, the most attractive in every way that we've ever made.

All are invited. If we have friends visiting you we'd be pleased to see them also.

TO-DAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 2 AND 3. (Millinery Parlors, Second floor, second annex)
